The Leading EdTech Company eTeacher Group Enters the $8 Trillion Longevity Market With Longevity Life Academy

The full launch story. After 25 years and 400,000+ courses across nearly 200 countries, eTeacher Group opens its sixth online school — a live, teacher-led academy for healthy aging, with an Abbott Lingo continuous glucose monitor shipped to every US student before Lesson 5. UBS projects the longevity market will reach roughly $8 trillion by 2030. LLA occupies the middle ground between concierge clinics and unvetted online advice — with the same live cohort model that helped 10,000+ learners a year finish what they started.

The Leading EdTech Company eTeacher Group Enters the $8 Trillion Longevity Market With Longevity Life Academy

Miami, Florida Jul 17, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - eTeacher Group, a global leader in live online education, today announced its entry into the longevity market with Longevity Life Academy (LLA), its sixth proprietary online school. LLA brings eTeacher's signature model — live, teacher-led instruction paired with bite-size daily practice — to the science of healthy aging.

UBS projects the longevity market will reach roughly $8 trillion by 2030, up from $5.3 trillion in 2023, yet most offerings sit at two extremes: concierge clinics that cost a fortune, or unvetted social-media advice that no one sticks with. eTeacher enters the underserved middle from strength: more than 10,000 learners a year, 400,000+ courses across nearly 200 countries, and roughly 70% of its customers already in the United States.

The flagship program, "The Longevity Blueprint," is an 18-week live course — 18 sessions across four phases, 50 minutes weekly, cohorts of 8–15 — across six pillars: Nutrition, Sleep, Exercise & Movement, Supplements & Wearables, Stress Management, and a personal Longevity Protocol. Every student receives an Abbott Lingo continuous glucose monitor, shipped to their US home before Lesson 5. The Lingo biosensor is a 14-day, painless device available without a prescription and FSA/HSA-eligible; it is intended for adults 18 and over, is not for people who use insulin, and is not a diagnostic tool.

Everything runs on eTeacher's advanced learning management system. Instructors include researcher Natalie Blackbourne and University of California, Santa Barbara senior lecturer Amy Jamieson. The Longevity Blueprint is enrolling now from $289 per month.

"We believe we can bring the world of longevity into every household in the United States and raise healthspan globally. Our whole mission is to democratize what used to be a luxury," said Harel Tayeb, CEO of eTeacher Group.

About eTeacher Group: eTeacher Group is one of the world's longest-running online-education companies, delivering live, teacher-led courses to more than 10,000 learners a year with 400,000+ courses completed across nearly 200 countries.

eTeacher Group Launches Longevity Life Academy to Open the $8 Trillion Longevity Market to Everyday Americans

The business angle. Between $2-million concierge clinics and free unverified advice sits the mainstream American household no one serves well. eTeacher's edge isn't a lower price — it's a global-leading teaching engine now brought to healthspan, from $289 a month. Roughly 70% of eTeacher's customers are already in the US, with a proven billing and retention engine behind every school. Miami, FL, July 19, 2026 --(PR.com)-- eTeacher Group, a global leader in online education, is entering one of consumer health's fastest-growing categories, launching Longevity Life Academy, its sixth proprietary online school, to occupy a gap its CEO argues no one serves well: the space between expensive concierge clinics and free, unverified online advice. The gap isn't only between $2-million clinics and free advice, it's between information and follow-through.

The opportunity is large and split. UBS values the longevity market at $5.3 trillion in 2023, rising toward $8 trillion by 2030, while the narrower healthspan-product market is estimated at $25 billion-plus today, growing toward roughly $63 billion by 2035, per Market Research Future. Yet rigor, engagement, and accessibility rarely coexist in one offering. The clinics have rigor but no reach; the feeds have reach but no rigor; and neither solves the problem that defeats most consumers, staying with a program long enough for it to work.

eTeacher's real advantage is one rivals would take years to build: a teaching method proven to make learning stick. It has delivered 400,000+ courses across nearly 200 countries using live experts in small cohorts, guided daily practice, and a community that drives completion, with roughly 70% of its customers already in the US and a proven billing and retention engine behind it. That combination of live instruction, engagement, and dependable operations is difficult to assemble and rarer still in consumer health, where churn is the industry's defining weakness.

Its flagship program, the Longevity Blueprint, applies that method to healthspan. Delivered entirely online, it runs 18 weeks and 18 live sessions across four phases, with cohorts of 8 to 15 students moving from foundational principles to a written,

July 19, 2026 - PRLog -- eTeacher Group, a global leader in online education, is launching Longevity Life Academy, its sixth proprietary online school, to occupy a gap its CEO argues no one serves well: the space between expensive concierge clinics and free, unverified online advice. The gap isn't only between price points — it's between information and follow-through. The opportunity is substantial. UBS values the longevity market at $5.3 trillion in 2023, rising toward $8 trillion by 2030. Yet rigor, engagement, and accessibility rarely coexist in one offering. The clinics have rigor but no reach; the feeds have reach but no rigor; and neither keeps consumers with a program long enough to work. eTeacher's

Roughly 70% of its customers are already in the US, with a proven billing and retention engine behind every school. Its flagship program, the Longevity Blueprint, runs 18 weeks across four phases and covers six pillars: Nutrition, Sleep, Exercise and Movement, Supplements and Wearables, Stress Management, and an individual Longevity Protocol. Each student receives an Abbott Lingco continuous glucose monitor before Lesson 5, anchoring the curriculum in their own biomarker data. Founding faculty member Julie Gibson Clark held the number two spot on the Rejuvenation Olympics leaderboard for more than a year, ahead of that contest's founder Bryan Johnson. Pricing starts at $289 per month, a fraction of concierge longevity programs. eTeacher frames accessibility as more than affordability: the design goal is completion — a program an ordinary household can start, finish, and sustain. "Longevity is where our vision meets the largest consumer opportunity of our time. Our job is to take what is proven, teach it live, and make it something a working family can actually follow," said Harel Tayeb, CEO of eTeacher Group. About eTeacher Group eTeacher Group is one of the world's longest-running online-education companies, delivering live, teacher-led courses to more than 10,000 learners a year, with 400,000+ courses completed across nearly 200 countries. eTeacher Group Launches Longevity Life Academy: Science-Backed Longevity, Built on Your Numbers

Posted July 19, 2026 by omrigitter

eTeacher Group launches Longevity Life Academy, a live online healthy-aging school combining expert teachers, small cohorts, community support, and personal biomarker insights.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE — Longevity has a reputation for being expensive, intimidating, and impossible to stick with. Longevity Life Academy, the new sixth school from global education leader eTeacher Group, is built to be the opposite: a guided protocol built around your own biology and your own numbers, taught live in groups of 8 to 15 by experts who know your name, with a community that makes the habits last.

Accessibility here is about more than cost. As the longevity market races toward $8 trillion by 2030 (UBS), its highest-profile figures spend fortunes chasing extra years, yet most people who try to follow along quit within weeks. LLA's answer is method, not money: the same live, community-driven approach that helped hundreds of thousands of eTeacher learners finish what they started, now aimed at healthy aging. Tuition starts from $289 per month.

Instead of memorizing facts about glucose or sleep, students watch those numbers move in their own bodies. Every US student receives an Abbott Lingo continuous glucose monitor before Lesson 5, then builds a personal protocol across the program's six pillars: Nutrition, Sleep, Exercise and Movement, Supplements and Wearables, Stress Management, and a personal Longevity Protocol, one small habit at a time. It is a plan meant to be kept for the next decades, not abandoned after a 10-week challenge. The Lingo device is a 14-day, painless biosensor, available without a prescription and FSA/HSA-eligible; it is intended for adults 18 and over, is not for people who use insulin, and is not a diagnostic tool.
